EFEKTY: A COOKERY BOOK

Food from Serbia

Sarma is a traditional Serbian dish consisting of sauerkraut stuffed with a mixture of minced meat, rice, onions and spices. It's arranged in a pan and cooked until soft. This dish is a favorite for special occasions and holidays in Serbia Kajmak is one of the most famous Serbian dairy products, which is made from heated milk. It's made by skimming the fat from the surface of milk and processing it until it becomes rich and creamy. It's used as a spread on bread, and even as an addition to dishes.

IN SPAIN THERE ARE DIFFERENT PROVINCES AND FOOD DIFFERS FROM ONE PLACE TO ANOTHER. IN OUR PROVINCE WE HAVE MANY PARTICULAR DISHES:

Catalan food

paella is one of the most known dishes. but did you know that what it's called paella is actually the metallic recipient where you cook it?

the ingredients can vary from one region to another, actually they differ from home to home, however, it must contain chicken, rice, green beans, red pepper and tomato for it to be called a paella.

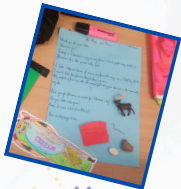

it can also have seafood like the one in this picture but never chorizo 😊

Jenny - Professional

Dear Participants of CULTURES in an ENVELOPE eTwinning PROJECT, the time has come to start the fourth letter exchange. This time, you're to write letters about literature. What we read helps us shape our minds. Choose a book that you read recently and recommend it to your pen pal. Include comments about the main character, the plot, and your opinion on why it's a good read for a teenager.
